Bideawee Pets of NY: Hampton

-From his Adopter, Stacey

Our friend Emma, (who works at Bideawee's PAWS facility), knew that we were starting the process of looking for a cat to adopt, and tagged us in a video of Hampton that was posted to Bideawee's Facebook page. We couldn't get over how friendly he looked, and reached out to see if we could meet him. Almost immediately upon walking into the room, Hampton came right over to us, asking to be pet.

'Tis the Season

-Leslie Granger, President & CEO

It's the holiday season and gift giving stress has officially begun. Every year we spend so much time and energy (and money!) trying to figure out what to get our partners, family, friends, and coworkers. We stress over how much to give to those in the service industry, our postman or woman, the teachers to our children and the ladies/gentlemen at our nail salons. And in the midst of all that, we're supposed to think about year-end charitable giving too?? It's stressful.

Puppy Love

This holiday season and all year long, Bideawee has been delivering puppy love to businesses in the local area through our popular "Cuddle Events." Bideawee's Cuddle Events allow you to surprise your employees with an office visit from Bideawee adoptable puppies. For a small donation, employees will have the opportunity to enjoy a much-needed cuddle break with puppies in need of love too. All cuddle animals are available for adoption at Bideawee. If you or your company is interested, please email Amy Brostoff at amy.brostoff@bideawee.org for more information.

Zhang, Manhattan Volunteer

"Bideawee has become a place of comfort for me. I'll go there when I'm having a bad week and it will cheer me right up. The best part is definitely the animals, but the people that work and volunteer there also play a big role.

There is one very special puppy that came in April named Sassy. She was paralyzed from the waist down, so she had no use of her back legs. She would move around by dragging her legs behind her or wheeling around on a cart.

Pick of the Litter, Posey

-Sean Bauer, Adoption Associate

"Posey to me, is the obvious choice for this month's Pick of the Litter. She is a gorgeous and sassy lady, who is just over-spilling with personality. There is no cat faster to greet a guest, or offer the branch of friendship; she is a genuine
